

IN a town overflowing with movie stars, the one guy who looks most like a matinee idol isn't even an actor.

He's a Kennedy.

He's Anthony Kennedy Shriver, and he was the big draw at the Best Buddies fundraiser Monday night at the Design Exchange pegged to the screening of The Wings Of The Dove.

Shriver founded Best Buddies in 1989, an organization that promotes friendships between university and college students and adults with developmental disabilities.

Every woman in the room certainly wanted to be his new best bud.

His parents Eunice & Sargent Shriver chatted with Bluma Appel. The Shrivs have been married for 43 years.

"It was a good idea, the best," claimed Eunice.

Dropping by to lend their support to the cause: Jeremy Irons (Chinese Box) and "Marky" Mark Wahlberg (Boogie Nights), Marky beating it to Bistro 990 afterwards.

After meeting with the Shrivs at the screening, Wings star Helena Bonham Carter dined at Prego with Timothy Dalton (Informant).

BEST BUDDIES

The Toronto Star
September 9, 1997

BEST BUDDY: Anthony Kennedy Shriver oughta be in pictures.